STEAMER VIRGINIA LEE LEAVES FOR HOME PORT

QUINCY, Oct 23—The steamboat Virginia Lee, built for the Pennsylvania Railroad by the Fore River branch of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, to ply between Cape Charles City and Norfolk, Va, had her trial trip today in Massachusetts Bay. The boat was in charge of Capt Joseph Kemp and there was on board a number of officials of the Fore River Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The craft was given a full test and showed up so well that the local officials left her at the lightship this afternoon while the Virginia Lee turned her prow southwards for her home port.

The steamer went down the coast with Capts Kemp of Fore River and House of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Coast Pilot O'Brien in charge. She is expected to reach her destination Thursday night.
